This screenshot shows the Microsoft Excel interface with the Insert tab selected. A large modal window titled "Office Add-ins" is open, displaying a grid of recommended add-ins. The categories listed on the left are All, Best Apps of the Year, Document Review, Editor's Picks, Education, Productivity, Reference, Search, and Visualization. Under the "LAB APPS" category, there is one visible add-in card with a blue background, a central logo placeholder, and the text "Add-in Name Free/Trial | Developer/Company". To the right of the main grid, there is a section titled "Suggested for you" with three additional add-in cards. At the bottom of the modal, there is another section titled "GET WORK DONE WITH OFFICE" with three more add-in cards. The overall theme of the add-ins appears to be productivity-related. The Excel ribbon at the top includes tabs for File, Home, Insert, Draw, Page Layout, Formulas, Data, Review, View, and a search bar. The status bar at the bottom indicates a resolution of 1366x768 at 200%.
